NEW LEADER FOR THE BAND

Harrisburg Man to Take Charge of the Band. Mr. McDonald Resigned to Take up Show Work. May Produce Show Here.

Professor Harry Loeser, of Harrisburg, has been engaged to take the place of Mr. McDonald, of Carlisle, instructor of the Gettysburg Band. The new instructor is not unknown to musicians of the town. On a number of occasions he came here to college affairs as leader of the famous Loeser's Orchestra.

The local band has been in charge of Mr. McDonald since last winter and in that time it said to have improved in a number of respects. Mr. McDonald's work was entirely satisfactory to the majority of the members of the organization and his resignation was a source of much regret to the friends he had made since his visits to town started. He had entered into a contract for a period of five years to direct the musical numbers of home talent plays.

Although Mr. Loeser's work will not cost any more than had been paid to Mr. McDonald the finances of the band are not in a flourishing condition and it has been suggested that Mr. McDonald might be induced to put on a local talent production for their benefit when he becomes actively engaged in his new work. No definite action on this has been taken but most of the members seem to be in favor of the project. It is likely that the trustees will see fit to encourage the plan.

In addition to his work with his orchestra, Mr. Loeser has for some time been prominently identified with the Commonwealth Band of Harrisburg. He is expected to assume his duties here on next Monday evening, the night of regular practice.

HAGERSTOWN FAIR

Exhibits Authentically Stated to be Bigger Than Ever.

All that is necessary for the Hagerstown fair this week is good weather. Believing that the balloon ascension is one of the greatest attractions of the fair, Wm. J. Hurley has completed arrangements with A. Johnny Mack, a noted aeronaut for ascensions every day during the fair.

The members of the Fair Board are contemplating a stock calcade to take place in the Horse Show ring in front of the grandstand. Due to the fact that the largest number of high class stock ever entered will be shown this year this should prove a distinct feature. When the gates of the Fair-ground opened to-day, it could be authentically stated that Hagerstown's biggest and best fair had begun.

From the head of every department of the Fair it was learned that the exhibits are way ahead of any previous year and with the grounds so systematically arranged, the quality of attractions so high and the many improvements made, the prospects must be sanguine.

HUNTERS GET LICENSES

County Treasurer Issuing Many Hunting Licenses Last Few Days

The office of George E. Spangler, County treasurer, has been a busy place for the past few days. He issued 162 hunters licenses on Monday and Tuesday saw a total of nearly as many go to prospective hunters who are anxious to be prepared when the season opens. Until the beginning of the week few people were taking out the permits. The whole number issued up until Tuesday morning was only 701. Last year more than 3000 tags were made out at the local office and it is doubted if the number will be that great this year.

LESS INFECTION AMONG CATTLE

Fewer Cattle in the County Infected with Tuberculosis. Dr Hudson gives advice to Dairymen for Better Care of Cattle.

In the past few years there has been a big decrease in the number of tubercular cattle in Adams county herds. When Congress first passed an act in 1910, making it mandatory on the part of milk shippers to have their herds tested, inspectors in the county found that a large per cent. of the cattle tested were tubercular.

Tabulations of the last few months in the county shows that there has now been a slump in infected cattle of about twenty-five per cent. Dr. E. D. Hudson, one of the inspectors for this section, said yesterday the decrease was wonderful when the conditions that existed when inspections first started are taken into consideration.

He further said it is confidently expected by the State Livestock Sanitary Board that as soon as the state's finances will permit, an act will be passed requiring each shipping station to have all their milk tested by one of the state's agents who will be stationed there for the purpose. Also, that as soon as more money becomes available the work of testing cattle for tubercular trouble will be more carefully prosecuted. The large number that have been condemned in the past few years has been a severe drain upon the treasury, and of course the cattle cannot be condemned when there is no money to pay for them. A herd of tested cattle is vastly more valuable than a herd which has not been tested and which may be infected with tuberculosis, which plays such havoc with the children of the country.

Here are a few hints given by Dr. Hudson for the care of cattle:

"Dairymen must be careful that floors over the cattle are in perfect condition and not a patchwork of crevices. Bacilli from hay falls into the stables and cause tonsillitis and throat trouble.

"Insist that there is perfect ventilation.

"Take precautions that the stables are well lighted.

"Always thoroughly clean stables after the herd has been taken out. Be sure that the stables are dry before the herd is let into the stables."

Dairymen are urged to have their cattle tested. The mere fact that they own and possess a herd that has been thoroughly tested and is composed of perfectly healthy cattle, assures a high price for their milk. Tested cattle are 75 per cent. more valuable than those untested.

KILLED AT FOOT BALL

Emmitsburg Student Met with Accident that Results in Death.

While playing foot ball at Mt. St. Mary's college, Emmitsburg, William English, a student there was killed on Monday.

English, who was a member of the senior class, was not on the football team, neither was he engaged in a regular game at the time he met his death. With a number of other students in ordinary citizens clothes, he had engaged in a rough and tumble game and shortly after the play had commenced was thrown on his head. The fall resulted in concussion of the brain which caused his death in a few hours. He was about 23 years old and a native of Troy, New York.

GOOD ROADS BRING MORE TOURISTS

Increase in Automobile Travel during Last Few Days. Higher Priced Cars Come Since Roads are in Better Condition.

Automobile owners have taken advantage of the ideal touring weather of the past few days and hundreds of cars have been passing through town since the cloudy damp spell of last week that saw a decrease of motoring. On Sunday and Monday hundreds of cars bearing license tags of other states were seen traveling over the Lincoln Highway, not a few of them stopping in Gettysburg at least long enough to view a part of the battlefield.

Word that the York turnpike has been repaired at last seems to have passed rapidly among motorists from a distance. This has had its effect in bringing a more expensive set of cars through town. On Monday five high priced limousines conveyed parties to the field who stopped at the several town hotels. Owners of these cars would have hesitated to bring them over roads in the condition ours were known to be until a short time ago. Through travel on the Lincoln Way has also been stimulated by repairs recently made to the mountains between McConnellsburg and Bedford.

Scenery of Adams county and the southern section of Pennsylvania traversed by the Lincoln Way is noted for its beauty. At no time of year is our country more attractive than the present. When it becomes generally known that our roads are improved to such an extent that large cars can pass over them without fear of damage even though the weather has not been favorable we will undoubtedly have a noticeable increase of tourists.

HARRY C. HOUSER

Harry C. Houser, until about 15 years ago a resident of Gettysburg, died at his home in Waverly, New York, on Monday. He had been married less than two weeks and was stricken with an attack of typhoid fever. Mr. Houser was aged 44 years, 10 months and 14 days.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Sarah Houser, of Steinwehr avenue; one sister, Mrs. Henry Menchey, of Breckenridge street and one brother, W. A. Houser, of Cumberland county. The funeral services and interment will be held in Waverly on Wednesday.

BURGLARS BREAK INTO COTTAGES

Summer Homes on the Mountain Suffer from Marauders. Get Nothing valuable but make it Necessary to Have Watchman.

As is customary each year about this time, a band of thieves has made a raid on the vacant cottages at Monterey. So far only one cottage has been entered and since the activity of the thieves has been discovered a special watchman will be placed in the vicinity of the cottages to look out for the intruders and if possible capture them.

The cottage entered was that owned by Mrs. George Hall, Baltimore, who recently vacated the cottage and returned to her home in the city. The cottage is located in the Monterey circle and was first broken into last Wednesday. At that time the thieves must have been frightened away as they returned to the same cottage Saturday night and broke into it. An entrance was effected by breaking off a shutter and smashing in a window pane. There was practically nothing in the cottage that would be stolen and it is thought that the thieves' booty consisted of a ladies' suit and some every-day silver.

T. B. McCarney who looks after the cottages over the winter discovered that the cottage was broken into. Just why the marauders persist in these fall raids on the summer cottages is beyond human ken. Nothing of any value, or that would be worth carrying away, except the range in the kitchen, is ever left behind when the cottagers pull up stakes for the season.

EXPECTED HERE

Boy with One Leg Walking Around the World.

Ralph D. Tompkins, a 20 year old boy, born in Newburgh, N. Y., who is engaged in a world tour on foot is expected to go through here on his way to the Hagerstown Fair. He was in Hanover Monday and sang there on the square, taking up a collection afterward.

The young man is now finishing his self imposed task of seeing his own country first before starting through every foreign country on the globe. When a lad of four he met with the loss of one of his legs in a railroad accident and consequently in his touring he is aided by crutches.

In 1911 he walked from New York to Chicago and return, a distance of 2,070 miles, in 99 days, and the year following the distance from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., to Jacksonville, Fla., 1800 miles, was covered in 91 days. He secures traveling expenses by appearing at vaudeville theaters singing songs of his own composition and giving a short travelogue. He left New York City November 27, 1912, and before he leaves for foreign shores will have visited every city and town of any size in the entire country.

WILL FATTEN CATTLE

State College Buys lot to Feed during Winter.

To convince the farmers of Pennsylvania that it pays to buy live stock for fattening purposes, the State College has just bought two car loads of cattle, aggregating sixty head, and a car load of horses. These animals will be fattened on a ration adapted to Pennsylvania conditions, and will be sold after the experiment has been conducted for five months. At that time, about April 1, a cattle feeders' convention will be held at State College. The cattle were purchased in West Virginia, and the horses at Chicago. The feeding experiment will be conducted to determine the effect of different feeds for fattening purposes.

FARMERS HOLD THEIR WHEAT

Grain Men Say Present Comparative Low Prices and Prospect of a Raise Causes Slow Market. Few Have Been Selling Lately.

With the price lower than $1 per bushel, wheat is selling slowly right now. In fact the sales are considered abnormally small for this time of the year, by wheat men who know.

The farmers in this section, and in fact, all over the country, are still holding fast to their crop, it seems, and as a result sales are falling far short of the usual run.

This, it is explained by a local wheat man, is due to several things. First, the low price at present prevailing and which has prevailed for the past week or more following the decline from about $1.12 or $1.14 which occurred about ten days ago, and secondly, because of the fact that the farmers are now busy seeding and therefore have little time to give to marketing their wheat crop.

This, coupled with the fact that there is a general belief that wheat will soar again within a week or two, forms a combination which is considered responsible for the lack of activity in the wheat market.

The low price, it is stated, is due to the fact that European markets are stocked up, having bought heavily several weeks ago, and that it will be a week or more before there is much activity in the exporting trade.

RUSH ARMY TO DEFEND OSTEND

German Advance Meets With Fierce Resistance.

REVERSE WEST OF AISNE

Allies Claim Gains in France, But Berlin Announces Decisive Victory in Cavalry Battle.

London, Oct. 13.—The allies are rushing large detachments of troops to reinforce the Belgian army in the defense of Ostend.

The German advance against the famous resort has begun, and already the advance guards of the two armies are in contact at several points, resulting in desperate fighting all along the line, with fortune so far favoring the allies.

As the capture of Ostend is of far more importance to the fulfillment of the German plans than many Antwerp, every foot of the way will be bitterly contested. If the Kaiser's legions succeed in taking the town it will be only after the allied armies have been so overwhelmingly defeated that there is not an ounce of fight left in them.

The fate of Ostend depends largely on the outcome of the conflict now being waged on the line of Lassigny and Lens and the other operations connected therewith, in which the three German corps, released from the siege of Antwerp, are taking part.

The first move in the attack on Ostend was the Germans desperate attempt to cut off the Belgian army, which retreated westward from Antwerp when it was seen that the city was doomed. This plan failed, and the Belgians are now hastening to the channel town, the objective of the Kaiser's next attack on Belgian soil.

The Germans threw a pontoon bridge across the Scheldt river at Wetteren, and sent a large force northward in hope of getting between Ostend and the Belgians.

However, in conducting that enterprise the Germans weakened their defense of Brussels and came in contact with a heavy force sent to relieve the Belgian troops. At last reports fighting was going on, with the success on the side of the allies. In their advance against Ghent the Germans got as far as Loochristi, which is only about five miles from the eastern suburbs of Ghent.

The attacking forces, under a hot fire from machine guns and light artillery, were compelled to fall back about eight miles to Lokeren. At the same time an attacking column which was moving against Ghent, south of the Scheldt, was attacked near Melle. The Germans fought gamely, but had to give ground and retired, leaving a battery behind.

The occupation of Lokeren by the German forces was an important move for the invaders, as Lokeren is a point of strategic importance.

A detachment of Uhlans had a hot brush with a squad of Belgians near Quatretricht, southeast of Ghent, and were compelled to flee, but the Germans sent forward a heavier force with artillery and attacked Melle, which caught on fire and was partially destroyed. The Belgians then retreated toward Ghent.

The German Statement.

The following official bulletin was issued in Berlin:

"Our cavalry on Saturday completely routed a French cavalry division west of Lille and near Hazebrouck (25 miles west of Lille and 10 miles northwest of Aire, where German cavalry was reported driven back Saturday). We inflicted severe losses on another French cavalry division. Until now the engagements on the front in the western theater did not lead to a decision.

"About the booty at Antwerp no communications can be made, as information still falls. Neither can the number of British and Belgian troops who crossed the Dutch frontier be fixed."

The French Statement.

The following is the official bulletin issued in Paris:

"Violent attacks have been made along our front. We have gained ground at many points; nowhere have we lost any.

"First—On our left wing the cavalry engagements continue in the region of La Bassée (15 miles southwest of Lille), Estaires (15 miles west of Lille) and Hazebrouck. Between Arris and the Oise the enemy endeavored to deliver several attacks, which failed, notably between Lassigny and Roye.

"Second—On the center we have made some progress on the plateau on the right (north) bank of the Aisne, in front of Soissons, and to the east and southeast of Verdun.

"Third—On our right wing, in the Vosges, the enemy delivered a night attack in the region of Ban de Sapt, to the north of St. Die; they were repulsed.

"The flag captured Sunday belongs to the Sixth regiment of active Pomranian infantry, No. 49, of the Twentieth corps of the Prussian army. The brigade of marine fusiliers was engaged during all the day of Oct. 9 and the night of Oct. 9-10 against the German forces and repulsed them and at the same time inflicted heavy losses amounting to 200 men killed and fifty prisoners.

PRZEMYSL RELIEVED BY AUSTRIAN ARMY

Drive Back Russians, Who Lost Prisoners.

London, Oct. 13.—A Reuter dispatch from Amsterdam says that a telegram received from Vienna states that the Russians in Galicia and north of the Vistula are pursued by Austro-German troops.

"Many towns which a few days ago were in the hands of the Russian forces are again under Austrian administration.

The message adds that the Russians did not behave so badly as the authorities had expected. Even the Cossacks conducted themselves humanely. The dispatch says:

"A telegram from Vienna states it is officially announced that the Austrian advance has relieved Przemyśl, Galicia. The Austrians have entered the fortress at all points, and where the Russians attempted resistance they were beaten back. The Russians fled in the direction of the River San, attempting to cross at Sniava and Lezaysk, where a great number were captured."

A Central News dispatch from Rome says that a message to the Messagero from Petrograd states that the Russians have abandoned the siege of Przemyśl, in Austrian Galicia, in order to put themselves in a strategic position to meet the Austro-German army.

DROP MORE BOMBS ON PARIS

All Fail to Explode, But One Narrowly Misses Two Passenger Trains.

Paris, Oct. 13.—It was announced officially that a Taube aeroplane had flown over Paris yesterday and had dropped six bombs.

Five French aviators went up to pursue the German airman. One bomb dropped between two passenger trains just leaving the Northern railroad station; the others fell in the Rue Pouchel and on the Boulevard Bessieres and the Boulevard Clichy. The missiles did not explode and were later found imbedded two feet in the earth.

Another German bomb was dropped at St. Ouen, a suburb of Paris, but it also did not explode. This missile fell within a short distance of a large paint factory, where there is a gasoline tank with a capacity of 80,000 gallons.

A new squadron of air craft has been formed to deal with the German aviators.

GUNS TO SIGNAL ZEPPELINS

Take to Cellar When Warning Salvo Is Heard, Says Gravesend's Mayor.

London, Oct. 13.—The only notice of the arrival of hostile air craft in the neighborhood of the Thames and the Medway, says the mayor of Gravesend in a proclamation, will be the firing of guns from the defenses. The notice adds:

"Persons seeking to gratify their curiosity will do so at their own risk. When firing is heard the people should immediately take shelter in the lower rooms or cellars of their buildings."

PLACE HUGE WAR TAX ON ANTWERP

Germans Assume Government of Belgian City.

ALL FORTS ARE TAKEN

It Is Said the Invaders Lost 45,000 Men Before the Capture Was Effected.

London, Oct. 13.—Germany has imposed a fine of £20,000,000 ($100,000,000) on Antwerp as a war indemnity.

The city is now under German government and Baron von der Schulte has been appointed military governor of the city.

The rear guard of the Belgian troops was cut off by the Germans, but few were captured, and the British and Belgian soldiers who could not reach the main forces arrived at the Dutch frontier villages, where they were disarmed and interned.

A dispatch from The Hague, quoting a Berlin officer who entered Holland, says that the total number of soldiers who crossed from Belgium into Holland is about 26,000, among them 2000 British marines.

Another dispatch from Rosendaal, Holland, says that the last forts have yielded and normal conditions are being rapidly restored. The latest reports indicate that the city was not damaged as severely as at first reported. The flames and resultant loss were largely confined to the suburb of Berchem and the southern part of the city.

General Von Beseler, the German commander, is co-operating with Burgomaster De Vos in restoring a condition of tranquility in the captured city.

The bombardment of Antwerp during the last two nights that the city held out was undoubtedly the most terrific in the history of the world. Thousands of gigantic shells, each having the power to wreck a powerful, big building, were thrown into the city. The roar was continuous.

According to a dispatch from Amsterdam, four German officers suddenly appeared at noon on Friday before the Hotel de Ville, in Antwerp, and demanded the surrender of the town. After a short consultation this was agreed to, and the Germans entered Antwerp through the gates in the roads from Turnhout and Welyck. They entered an almost empty city, with their hands playing.

At about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon the first body of infantry with machine guns arrived at the Place de Neir, where the Royal Palace is situated. The troops at once occupied all public buildings as barracks.

The Dutch government is reported to have opened negotiations with the German military authorities for the speedy return of the Antwerp fugitives.

Immediately after the entry into the city an official notice was issued, inviting the citizens to return without delay. A promise was given that their property would be respected and that no harm would be done them if they displayed a proper attitude toward the German troops.

With their usual thoroughness the Germans are tightening their grip on the country around the city by taking hostages in each village and suburb, and by issuing stringent rules of behavior, with the death penalty or worse if these rules are broken.

The Germans lost heavily in taking the city. It is stated that the Germans lost 45,000 men during the attack on Fortresses Waelhem and Wavre-St. Catherine at Antwerp.

PLEAD FOR PEACE

Secretary Bryan and Oscar Straus Urge Early Ending of War.

Philadelphia, Oct. 13.—Plea for universal peace and the early cessation of hostilities in Europe were embodied in stirring addresses delivered by Secretary Bryan, ex-Secretary of Labor Oscar S. Straus, Mayor Blankenburg and other prominent men at the great peace meeting in Convention Hall, at Broad street and Allegheny avenue.

The sentiment voiced by these men, deeply deploring the slaughter and devastation resulting from the great conflict, found a uniform response on the part of the immense audience, numbering more than 20,000 persons, who applauded vigorously every reference made to the early ending of the war.

Farmer Shoots Women.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 13.—James L. Heft, a farmer of Carverton, is under arrest following the shooting of Mrs. Eugene Phillips and Miss Anna Fluk, of Wyoming. Birdshot lodged in the faces and necks of the women. Heft, say the state police, admits the shooting, asserting that the victims were stealing his apples. Mrs. Phillips and Miss Fluk declare they were walking along the road when fired on.

McReynolds Sworn In.

Washington, Oct. 13.—The supreme court convened for its year's work, with 652 cases ready for consideration, or nearly 85 less than last year. Two features distinguished the day. One was the swearing in as an associate justice of James C. McReynolds. The other was a formal call by the court on President Wilson, in conformity with custom.

WAR VICTIMS OVER 3,000,000

Antwerp's Fall Adds 500,000 to Homeless List.

London, Oct. 13.—Three million refugees without homes or money, in many cases lacking sufficient clothing and even food, make one result of little more than two months of warfare in Europe.

The fall of Antwerp has added fully 500,000 men, women and children to the already long list of homeless sufferers who must depend on the bounty of others for their keep.

France, England, Germany, Austria, Russia and Belgium have all felt the effect of the sufferings of this great army. England and France especially and the neutral nation of Holland have been the chief sufferers, for to them have come the homeless hordes of Belgians fleeing from their homes or driven out by the fire and sword that has swept through the country.

It is estimated that there are 1,000,000 refugees in France, more than half that number in England, at least 500,000 in Holland. Refugees from the border towns of Germany and the East Prussian territory occupied by Russia have fled to the interior in what numbers cannot be estimated. On the other hand, Russians from Poland and the border towns attacked by the Germans have been forced to flee to the interior.

Thousands of refugees from Galicia and the parts of Hungary occupied by the Russians have fled to the interior, and Vienna and other large Austrian and Hungarian cities are taxed to their utmost to care for them.

FERDINAND ASCENDS THRONE

Rumors That King Charles Was Poisoned by War Party Denied.

Rome, Oct. 13.—Prince Ferdinand was proclaimed king of Rumania under the title of Ferdinand I., in succession to the late Charles I., according to a dispatch received from Bucharest.

The dispatch adds that parliament was called into extraordinary session to act upon "matters of great importance." The formal ceremony of administering the oath to the new king will also take place.

Rumors that King Charles was poisoned by members of the Rumanian war party are denied in official dispatches from Bucharest.

Illinois Official a Suicide.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 13.—The body of Secretary of State Harry Woods was found in the garage in the rear of his residence here. He had evidently shot himself. The body had apparently been there since Saturday night. The defeat of Woods for the United States senatorship in September is believed to have been the cause of his suicide.

Belgian Queen in Ostend.

London, Oct. 13.—Definite information has been received here that the queen of the Belgians, notwithstanding the report last week that she had reached England, has not left Ostend for London.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

Revenue Laws for Years of 1912 and 1913 Completed.

The Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce, announces that a bulletin containing a digest of the laws relating to the revenue systems of the state and local governments has been completed and is now ready for distribution.

The bulletin describes in detail the different sources of revenue in each state, including general property taxes, poll taxes, the inheritance tax, corporation taxes, the income tax, business taxes, licenses and fees, and in the case of the general property taxes enumerates the classes of property subject to such taxes, the methods of assessment, equalization and collection, and the statutory limitations of the rates of such levies.

The laws relative to taxation, as shown by the present bulletin, have undergone great changes, since 1902, which was the date of the last report of this subject issued by the Bureau of the Census. Among the changes to be noted has been the creation of numerous tax commissions in the various states, having wide discretionary powers over the administration of the work of local officials connected with taxation, and full power over the assessment of the property of corporation doing business in two or more counties of the same state.

TAKE HOPE FROM MEXICAN REPORTS

Gathering of Generals Against Further Bloodshed

Washington, Oct. 13.—Hopeful reports reached Washington of the progress of the first day's work of the military convention being held at Aguas Calientes to determine the personnel of the future government of Mexico.

Not only are Generals Carranza and Villa represented, but General Zapata has sent three delegates, whose credentials have been accepted.

The basis of representation agreed upon was that each delegate must prove that he had command of at least 1000 men in the army or must have been identified as a general or governor with the Constitutionalist movement before Zacatecas was captured and the Huerta government. It was this point on which General Villa had been insisting from the beginning.

General Eduardo Hay, one of the men who opposed the acceptance of Carranza's resignation at the Mexico City convention, made an impassioned speech, urging the adoption of a resolution calling on General Carranza to release all political prisoners, as General Villa had done. He was enthusiastically applauded as he suggested that the language of the resolution be changed from a "request" to an "order." He said that the acts and resolutions of the convention should be regarded as orders upon all chiefs, including Carranza.

The convention passed the resolution in that form.

Official reports further state that the prevailing spirit of the meeting is one of harmony and a unanimity of feeling exists against further bloodshed.

FIFTEEN WORKMEN HURT

Oil Tank Roof Supports Collapse and They Are Thrown Into Tank.

Philadelphia, Oct. 13.—Fifteen men at work on the roof of a thirty-five-foot oil tank at Fifty-eighth street and the Schuylkill river were injured when the girders supporting the roof collapsed.

All were taken to the University hospital. Some are said to be in a serious condition. The men were making repairs to the roof and had piled up a great weight of sheet iron when the collapse came.

At first it was thought all had been killed. Calls for help were sent to the University and Presbyterian hospitals and the police districts and ambulances responded.

The injured men, most of them unconscious, were found in the bottom of the tank. Several had been partly caught beneath the weight of the falling sheet iron. It required some time to extricate them.

PENSIONS SHOW FALLING OFF

Continuous Decrease in Number on Roll and Amounts Paid Out.

Washington, Oct. 13.—Uncle Sam paid out a total of $172,417,546 in pensions in the fiscal year ended June 30 last, according to Commissioner of Pensions Saltzgeber, in his annual report made public.

This compares with $174,171,660 in 1913, which was the largest amount ever paid out. The commissioner, however, points out that the sum in expenditures has been reached and a decrease in the amount may be expected to continue. The grand total of expenditures for pensions from 1863 up to and including 1914 was $4,933,511,926.

The total number of pensioners of all classes on the rolls was 785,239, against 820,272 in 1913. The number of Civil War pensioners was 728,129, compared with 762,439 in 1913. The largest number ever on the rolls was in 1912, when there were 999,466. The loss of pensioners by death during the year was 33,639, or 7.3 per cent.

SIX BUSY WEEKS AHEAD OF YOU

From Now on Contestants Must Make Every Minute Count and Take Advantage of Every Opportunity.

The Times-News circulation campaign is now on in earnest and the next six weeks promise to show some hustling by the contestants and some great results in the way of subscriptions. Nearly every contestant who has entered the race has entered it with a determination to do the very best possible and to take advantage of every opportunity. This fact promises to make the race the most interesting that has ever been held in this section.

And also the number of the ten vote coupons that are coming in each day is an indication of the great interest that is being taken in this campaign. Friends of contestants everywhere, are cutting these coupons from the papers and sending them in. Contestants should remember that these same friends can do them much more good by getting subscriptions or by speaking to other people about subscriptions so that no one else will get them before their favorite can have a chance.

If you have a friend or friends whom you think might be willing to help you, send them a receipt book and ask them to get subscriptions. They can take them as well and when they are sent to the office they will be credited to your account the same as though you had brought them in personally. Or if desired contestants may have a friend working for them and may get the subscriptions from that friend and turn them over at the office with their own collections.

This sort of help will be of great value to contestants and they should make an effort at once to get as many of their friends interested as possible and to make them active in gathering the votes and subscriptions.

The PLACE HONEYMOON By HAROLD MACGRATH ILLUSTRATIONS BY C. D. RHODES

"Am I all right?" asked Harrigan. Courtlandt nodded. "You look like a soldier in mufti, and more than that, like the gentleman that you naturally are," quite sincerely.

The ex-gladiator blushed. "This is the reception-room. There's the ball-room right out there. The smoking-room is on the other side. Now, how in the old Harry am I going to get across without killing some one?"

Courtlandt resisted the desire to laugh. "Supposing you let me pilot you over?"

"You're the referee. Ring the gong." "Come on, then."

"What! While they are dancing?" backing away in dismay.

The other caught him by the arm. "Come on."

And in and out they went, hither and thither, now dodging, now pausing to let the swirl pass, until at length Harrigan found himself safe on shore, in the dim cool smoking-room.

"I don't see how you did it," admiringly.

"I'll drop in every little while to see how you are getting on," volunteered Courtlandt. "You can sit by the door if you care to see them dance. I'm off to see Mrs. Harrigan and tell her where you are. Here's a cigar."

Harrigan turned the cigar over and over in his fingers, all the while gazing at the young man's diminishing back. He sighed. That would make him the happiest man in the world. He examined the carnelian band encircling the six inches of evanescent happiness. "What do you think of that?" he murmured. "Same brand the old boy used to smoke. And if he pays anything less than sixty apiece for 'em at wholesale, I'll eat this one."

He lighted his cigar, and gave himself up to the delights of it.

Courtlandt loomed in the doorway. "Comfortable?"

"Perfectly. Good cigar, comfortable chair, fine view."

Young men began to drift in and out. The air became heavy with smoke, the prevailing aroma being that of Turkish tobacco of which Harrigan was not at all fond. But his cigar was so good that he was determined not to stir until the coal began to tickle the end of his nose. Since Molly knew where he was there was no occasion to worry.

Abbott came in, pulled a cigarette case out of his pocket, and impatiently struck a match. His hands shook a little and the flare of the match revealed a pale and angry countenance.

"Hey, Abbott, here's a seat. Get your second wind."

"Thank you," Abbott dropped into the chair and smoked quickly. "Very stuffy out there. Too many."

"Oh, look it. Having a good time?"

"Oh, yes!" There was a catch in the laugh which followed, but Harrigan's ear was not trained for these subtleties of sound. "How are you making out?"

"I'm getting acclimated. Where's the colonel tonight? He ought to be around here somewhere."

"I left him a few moments ago."

"When you see him again, send him in. He's a live one, and I like to hear him talk."

"I'll go at once," crushing his cigarette in the Jeypore bowl.

"What's your hurry? You look like a man who has just lost his job."

"Been steering a German countess. She was wound up to turn only one way, and I am groggy. I'll send the colonel over. By-by."

"Now, what's stung the boy?"

Nora was enjoying herself famously. The men hummed around her like bees around the sweetest rose. From time to time she saw Courtlandt hovering about the outskirts. She was glad he had come; the lepidopterist is latent or active in most women; to impale the butterfly, the moth, falls easily into the daily routine. She was laughing and jesting with the men. Her mother stood by, admiringly.

This time Courtlandt gently pushed his way to Nora's side.

"May I have a dance?" he asked.

"You are too late," evenly. She was becoming used to the sight of him, much to her amazement.

"I am sorry."

"Why, Nora, I didn't know that your card was filled!" said Mrs. Harrigan. She had the maternal eye upon Courtlandt.

"Nevertheless," said Nora sweetly, "it is a fact."

"I am disconsolate," replied Courtlandt, who had approached for form's sake only, being fully prepared for a refusal. "I have the unfortunate habit of turning up late, with a significance which only Nora understood."

"So, those who are late must suffer the consequences."

"Supper?"

"The barone rather than you."

The music began again, and Abbott whirled her away. She was dressed in Burmese taffeta, a rich orange. In the dark of her beautiful black hair there was the green luster of emeralds; an Indian-princess necklace of emeralds and pearls was looped around her dazzling white throat.

Unconsciously Courtlandt sighed audibly, and Mrs. Harrigan heard this note of unrest.

"Who is that?" asked Mrs. Harrigan. "Flora Desimone's husband, the duke. He and Mr. Harrigan were having quite a conversation in the smoke room."

"What!" in consternation.

"They were getting along finely when I left them."

Mrs. Harrigan felt her heart sink. The duke and James together meant nothing short of a catastrophe; for James would not know whom he was addressing, and would make all manner of confidences. She knew something would happen if she let him out of her sight. He was eternally talking to strangers.

"Would you mind telling Mr. Harrigan that I wish to see him?"

"Not at all."

Nora stopped at the end of the ball-room. "Donald, let us go out into the garden. I want a breath of air. Did you see her?"

"Couldn't help seeing her. It was the duke, I suppose. It appears that he is an old friend of the duchess. We'll go through the conservatory. It's a short-cut."

The night was full of moonshine; it danced upon the water; it fired the filigree tops of the solemn cypress; it laced the lawn with quivering shadows; and heavy hung the cloying perfume of the box-wood hedges.

"O bellissima notte!" she sang. "Is it not glorious?"

"Nora," said Abbott, leaning suddenly toward her.

"Don't say it, Donald; please don't. Don't waste your love on me. You are a good man, and I should not be worthy the name of woman if I did not feel proud and sad. I want you always as a friend; and if you decide that cannot be, I shall lose faith in everything. I have never had a brother, and in the two short years I have grown to look on you as one. I am sorry. But if you will look back you will see that I never gave you any encouragement. I was never deceived him. At the door Abbott smiled and bowed and returned to the garden. The barone rose to follow him. He had taken but a step forward, when a tableau formed by the door, causing him to pause irresolutely.

Nora was face to face at last with Flora Desimone.

"I wish to speak to you," said the Italian abruptly.

"Nothing you could possibly say would interest me," declared Nora, haughtily and made as if to pass.

"Do not be too sure," insolently. Their voices were low, but they reached the ears of the barone, who wished he was anywhere but here. He moved silently behind the palms toward the exit.

"Let me be frank. I hate you and detest you with all my heart," continued Flora. "I have always hated you, with your supercilious airs, you, whose father . . ."

"Don't you dare to say an ill word of him!" cried Nora, her Irish blood throwing hauteur to the winds. "He is kind and brave and loyal, and I am proud of him. Say what you will about me; it will not bother me in the least."

"I Hate You and Detest You!"

Boston, Oct. 12.—The Boston Braves beat the Athletics in a soul-racking nerve-shattering twelve inning game at Fenway Park and achieved the third successive victory over the Mackmen in the series for the world's championship.

Final score—Boston, 5; Athletics, 4. Exactly 35,520 frenzied fans watched the pitching battle between J. Leslie Bush for Connie Mack's team, and George Tyler and Bill James for the Bostonians.

It was one of the most sensational matches ever played, and veteran base ball men who have followed the game for years declare that for high-pitched interest they have never seen its equal.

Three times the Mackmen jumped into the lead in the course of the game, only to have the Braves come back and tie up the score. When the Athletics put over two runs in the tenth inning the most rabid Boston rooters thought the contest was all over.

But the Braves, with Hank Gowdy's home run to open the inning, came back and tied up the score again.

It was Hank Gowdy, whose batting was the sensation of last Friday's game in Philadelphia, who once more proved himself a Boston Bean in the twelfth inning, when he doubled into the temporary left field stands, and later came home with the winning run.

Gowdy opened the twelfth with his third hit into the bleachers, his first going into the temporary stand in the second inning for two bases and driving Maranville home, and his second, being his home run clout in the tenth, which bounded into the center field stand.

Gilbert was sent to bat for Tyler and was purposely passed. Moran then bunted to Bush, who tried for Gowdy at third. Bullet Joe's throw was wild and the ball went to the left field fence, Hank easily scoring the winning run.

Boston fans and players were wild with joy, and after Gowdy crossed the plate little Maranville actually picked up the lanky catcher, and, throwing him over his shoulders, carried him off the field. Other fans rushed on the field and lifted the other members of the team on their shoulders, marching them triumphantly around the park.

The Mackmen scored in the first. The Braves evened it up in the second. The Athletics put another run over in the fourth. The Bostonians scored in the same inning. Neither side tallied then until the tenth.

Schang opened this round with a single. Bush struck out. When Tyler tried to get Schang at second on Murphy's tap, both runners were safe. Oldring and Collins were retired, but Frank Baker proved himself equal to the emergency by singling sharply through Evers, scoring Schang and sending Murphy to third. Evers pulled a bone play by holding the ball while Eddie Murphy dashed home with the second run of the inning. The score:

Pennsylvanian Gets Quick Relief From Disorders Of His Stomach

I. E. Beckwith Says Mayr's Wonderful Remedy Gave Him Great Help.

I. E. Beckwith of Harrisburg, Penn., was a victim of disorders of the stomach and intestinal tract. He tried treatment after treatment. Nothing gave him relief.

Then one day he discovered Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy—and soon was happy.

Mr. Beckwith wrote to Geo. H. Mayr, the maker of the remedy and for twenty years the leading druggist of Chicago:

"I believe that Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy is the greatest stomach remedy on earth. One dose would convince any one who is troubled with his stomach of its wonderful merits. It removed some of the most awful looking stuff from my stomach. I have taken other remedies, but they never helped me."

Just such letters come from users of Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy in all parts of the country. It is known everywhere. The first dose convinces—no long treatment.

Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy clears the digestive tract of mucoid accretions and poisonous matter. It brings swift relief to sufferers from ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels. Many declare it has saved them from dangerous operations; many are sure it has saved their lives.

We want all people who have chronic stomach trouble on constipation, no matter of how long standing, to try one dose of Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy—one dose will convince you. This is the medicine so many of our people have been taking with surprising results. The most thorough system cleanser we ever sold. Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy is now sold here by People's Drug Store and druggists everywhere.

A FIGHT IN THE CLOUDS

By F. A. MITCHEL

Interlaken is a good central point for tourists to make short trips visiting Swiss places of interest. Perhaps the most interesting of all these trips is to take a train at Interlaken for Grindelwald, thence up the steep side of a mountain to Scheidegg.

When I made this trip the railway from Scheidegg to the top of the Jungfrau was just begun. In the car ascending from Grindelwald was a young American with two guides who was intending to ascend the Jungfrau from Scheidegg. He was a quiet, inoffensive fellow, but the fact that he carried an ice ax indicated that he was a climber. A Frenchman with a waxed mustache and a goatee proportionately small seemed disposed to give him Webster the American, kept his temper, but, being quicker at repartee, got the better of him and set the car laughing at him. This made the Frenchman, whose name was Du Pierre, angry, and he insulted Webster. Since they were sitting opposite each other Webster reached forth his hand and slapped the other's cheek.

Every one expected a fight, but since we were climbing at an angle of something like forty degrees no one relished the prospect of having one. We could not blame Webster for resenting an insult at the moment rather than having it pass into something more serious. Nevertheless, the affair did pass into something more serious. The Frenchman, handing Webster his card, said:

"This is no place for an altercation." Of course that meant a challenge, but when or where the end of the affair would be reached no one knew, and few cared. When we reached Scheidegg I, being a fellow countryman of Webster's, he called upon me, asking me to go to Du Pierre and make an effort to settle the matter. Before doing so I learned from a man who had witnessed the fracas in the car that the Frenchman was a celebrated Paris duelist. I had therefore very little hope of securing an adjustment, and that hope was extinguished as soon as I met the Frenchman's representative. He informed me that such an insult as he had received unavenged would ruin his reputation at home. He could not afford even to accept an apology.

Webster turned out to be a sheep-raiser in the heart of the Rocky mountains and used to high altitudes. He directed me to accept Du Pierre's challenge. By the code Webster was entitled to the choice of weapons and the terms of the fight. He directed me to make the following provisions: One of the principals was to go to a point on the road a mile down toward Lauterbrunnen, the other remaining at Scheidegg. Each was to be armed with a revolver, two chambers loaded. At an appointed hour they were to advance and begin firing whenever they chose to do so. The road leaving Scheidegg is not at first steep, and it made little difference which of the two won the Scheidegg end.

Du Pierre, who supposed he would fight under terms to which he had been accustomed, was indignant at such an innovation, but since I assured him that Webster would only fight him on the terms offered he was obliged either to go back to Paris having had his face slapped without having wiped out the insult or accept the situation.

The matter was kept perfectly quiet. Those who had witnessed the fracas in the car were tourists and scattered in all directions. Consequently when one went out the next morning as the sun was casting its first beams on the surrounding peaks there was no one present except the principals, their seconds and a surgeon who was stopping at one of the hotels. Du Pierre won the toss and chose to move out from Scheidegg. Two shots were given each man, and Webster and I went down the incline for a mile, waiting there for the time for the duelists to start.

I started him on the minute, and he advanced slowly up the road. The two men could see each other for nearly the whole distance. When they were a quarter of a mile apart the Frenchman, halting, took deliberate aim and fired. The ball fell on the road some distance from the American.

I now saw the meaning of Webster's tactics. Having lived in a mountainous country, he realized how much nearer objects appeared through the air than they were. Du Pierre had supposed he had his enemy within range when he was not. I could see that he was surprised that his shot had not taken effect, but I doubt if he knew the reason.

Webster now had two shots to his enemy's one, but showed no sign of firing. They continued to advance for perhaps a hundred feet when Webster suddenly raised his weapon. Du Pierre at once raised his and fired. Webster lowered his pistol. A spent ball struck him in the leg, but did no serious damage.

This ended the fight, for the Frenchman had used both his shots, while the American had used neither of his, and the latter had no intention of shooting an unarmed enemy. Indeed, he had planned the affair to result exactly as it had resulted. Handling his weapon to me, he walked up the road, lifted his hat as he passed Du Pierre and proceeded to the station. An hour later, with his guides, he started for the summit of the Jungfrau and made the first successful ascent of that season. As for the Frenchman, he went back to Paris disgusted with Americans and what he called their Yankee tricks.

RHEUMA

The Standard Remedy for All Forms of Rheumatism and Kidney Troubles.

Are you suffering from some form of rheumatism? Then you need a remedy for that disease only--not a preparation said to cure all the ills of the human body. Rubbing in liniments will only quiet the pain temporarily, but will not remove the cause.

Rheuma cleanses the kidneys of the poisonous uric acid secretions; opens the clogged veins so that the healthy blood can pass along the dead matter from the entire system; regulates disordered bowels, and enables a sluggish liver to convert thin, impure blood into rich, life-giving corpuscles. When this is accomplished there is no more rheumatism, for the source of the disease will be wiped out.

Rheuma is free from dangerous drugs. During the treatment the digestive organs are not deranged--Rheuma creates a healthy appetite. Get a bottle from People's Drug Store or any druggist. It is inexpensive. Your money returned if it fails.
